When you share with us, we share with many.

The Piqua Community Foundation encourages philanthropic giving by Piqua residents to Piqua residents (and others).

The Piqua Community Foundation was launched in 1993 by a group of leaders who sought to collectively make an impact on Piqua and start a legacy of charitable support for the community.

Said simply, The Foundation accepts donations — both large and small — and awards grants to enrich the Piqua community. An 18-member volunteer board of directors sets policy and directs fundraising and grant-giving. The Foundation’s staff manages the day-to-day operations.

We are your partners in giving to your neighbors right here in Piqua.

Did you know?

A community foundation is a public, nonprofit entity created to allow donors to meet their charitable giving goals and support organizations addressing current and future community needs. Community foundations act as stewards of a permanent pool of donations, endowing funds for the benefit of the specific geographic region they serve.
Giving for generations to come

One of The Piqua Community Foundation’s greatest strengths is the ability to offer flexibility in the way funds are established and operated. While a solid mainstay of the Piqua community, The Foundation can be nimble and responsive when emergency, development or improvement needs arise.

Through conservative investments, structured distributions and thorough financial oversight, The Piqua Community Foundation offers donors assurance that gifts made will be dispersed with due diligence and care. The Foundation offers permanent management of funds to support our community’s growth and enrichment of the lives of Piqua residents.

Flexibility to meet donors’ desires

The Foundation supports the community through a variety of fund types, allowing donors to give as much or as little direction as they wish in the way their contributions are distributed.

Many gifts to The Foundation come into the Piqua Community Fund, an unrestricted account from which a committee allocates community grants on a twice-annual basis. This fund offers the opportunity for anyone to contribute at any amount while being assured of local giving with accountability for programmatic spending.

Larger donations may be used to establish a variety of fund types that allow donors to name the fund for themselves or a loved one and make specifications about the way funds are allocated to qualifying nonprofit organizations, within and outside of Piqua.

In addition, special community funds allow for donors with shared interests to pool their donations and tackle a large project. The Piqua Community Foundation has partnered with local organizations to manage campaigns for community development projects including the Piqua Alexander Stadium, Fort Piqua Plaza and the Johnston Farm and Indian Agency.

Locally focused philanthropy

The Piqua Community Foundation focuses its giving to organizations that serve Piqua residents and scholarships to local students who are furthering their education. From youth enrichment programming to community events honoring veterans, from medical training equipment to civic beautification projects, contributions to The Foundation have a wide scope of impact. You can donate with confidence that your contribution will support your neighbors and help Piqua to continue to be a great place to live.

Local giving can be done in several ways. Funds can be established with gifts of cash, stock or property. The Foundation can be named as a beneficiary of a trust or an insurance policy. Loved ones may donate memorial contributions in the name of someone who has passed.

Our donors give through The Piqua Community Foundation because they want to see their community succeed and grow and its residents prosper. They also realize the tax benefits in the year the gift was given, allowing for advantages on both sides.
